FIRST OF FALL BRIDALS

Beautiful Autumn Weather over Week-End is Most Auspicious for Colorful Church Weddings of Well-known Andover People

GODFREY—CATES

One of the first of the early fall weddings took place Saturday at 4 o'clock in the South church, when Miss Ruth Margaret Cates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lincoln Cates of Whittier street, was united in marriage to Harold T. Godfrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Godfrey of North Andover by the Rev. E. Victor Bigelow. The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. The wedding march was played by Frederic G. Moore of Pittsfield.

Miss Marion E. Hill was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Katherine A. Berry, Miss Eunice A. Lovejoy, Miss Mildred J. Steward, Manchester, N. H., cousin of the bride and Mrs. Colin Moise, Astoria, L. I., twin sister of the groom. Arthur E. Steward, Newburyport, served as Mr. Godfrey's best man. The ushers were Messrs. Colin Moise, Astoria, L. I., Howard L. Cates, Wilmette, Ill., and Leo E. Leonard, Worcester, the latter two college mates and fraternity brothers of the groom.

The bride was becomingly gowned in ivory satin trimmed with pearls and lace and wore a tulle and lace veil with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor wore yellow chiffon with hat of matching velvet and gold lace. She carried butterfly roses. Two little nieces of the bride, Miss Alice Cates and Miss June Cates, who served as flower girls, wore orchid corsages with matching rosettes in their hair.

The church was tastefully decorated with hydrangeas, gladioli, asters and palms.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Malcolm McFadden, 27 Wolcott avenue. The bride's traveling trunks were of marine blue velvet with matching hat.

The bride is a graduate of Pynchard and until recently was in the employ of the Merrimack Fire Insurance Co. She has been active in grange and church work.

The groom is a textile engineer, graduate of Lowell Textile Institute, class of 1926, and past president of Phi Psi fraternity. He is connected with the Davis and Furber Machine Co., North Andover.

Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey, after their honeymoon, will spend several months in Athens, Ga., where Mr. Godfrey is to supervise the erection of machinery in a new mill, after which they will make their home in the Caron Apartments on Main street.

BUTTRICK—LUNDIN

One of the fashionable weddings of the season took place Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock in the Emanuel Episcopal church at West Roxbury, when Miss Helga Marie Lundin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar R. Lundin of 29 Stratford street, West Roxbury, was united in marriage to Allan Winfield Buttrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Buttrick of 15 Wolcott avenue.

DAYLIGHT SAVING ENDS

Another Season of Special Time Advantages Closes on Sunday Morning — Set Clocks Back One Hour

The season of daylight saving will come to a close on Sunday morning at two o'clock in Massachusetts and persons are asked to set their clocks back one hour to comply with Standard time again.

Train service will be an hour later in most cases, and official time tables will be in readiness for those who travel on Sunday. The Townsman Telltale will be gotten out shortly for Andover commuters to Boston, Reading and other cities and towns, who desire a condensed booklet regarding train service.

The season this year was shorter than usual beginning on the last Sunday in April rather than in March as in former years. This was a concession made to those who objected to daylight saving, considering it unnecessary and confusing. For the most part people have enjoyed the long daylight after work, and recreational pursuits are being indulged in more and more by citizens.

Dr. McGillicuddy to Speak at Mothers Club

The Andover Mothers Club will meet at the Guild house Wednesday October 1st. The business meeting will begin at 2:30 for the members and at 3:15 Dr. Helen I. McGillicuddy of the State Department of Health will be the speaker. A cordial invitation is extended to all who are interested to be present. Afternoon tea will be served.

Form Dramatic Club at High School

Through a suggestion of Mervin E. Stevens, a teacher at the Pynchard high school, and one who is deeply interested in dramatics, a dramatic club has been formed, and will be known as the Pynchard Dramatic club.

At the meeting held Tuesday about 40 members joined and the officers were elected as follows: William Crowley, Jr., president; James Sullivan, treasurer; James Scobie, secretary.

Any member of the school is eligible for membership to the club.

Notice

Miss Marie Nichols, Instructor in Violin at Abbot Academy, well known in Andover and Boston as teacher and artist, will have some free time at her disposal on Tuesdays and can receive a few additional pupils in Violin.

An unusual opportunity is offered for ensemble work with the Abbot Academy orchestra.

Application may be made to Miss Bailey at Abbot Academy.

An entirely new scheme of body lines and contours... the most costly paneling employed on any automobile in the world... and the richest upholstery and appointments... distinguish Buick's new Masterpiece BODIES by FISHER

The Silver Anniversary Buick is kindling more interest—drawing more people to the display rooms—winning more praise—and creating a demand so sweeping and so insistent that Buick's vast factories have reached new levels of production in attempting to keep pace.

—all because it is not only the most brilliant performing automobile of the day, but also because it marks a new style—a thrilling new mode of car design—more beautiful, more luxurious and more graceful than any the world has known!

An entirely new scheme of body lines and contours—softly rounded steel panels, the most costly employed on any motor car—a continuous moulding, with double head running around the body and dividing the lower from the upper structure—all impart an atmosphere of unrivaled beauty.

If you want beauty—if you want individuality—if you want up-to-the-minute smartness—there's only one choice... the choice of America... the Silver Anniversary Buick with new Masterpiece Bodies by Fisher. It's the new style—the new mode—in motor cars!

METROPOLITAN THEATRE

Three tons of mail, for the delivery of which over $5,000 was spent, was recently removed from the dressing room of Clara Bow, popular Paramount actress who appears in her latest starring picture, "The Fleet's In!" which opens at the Metropolitan Theatre on Friday, September 28th. James Hall plays the principal supporting role opposite Clara.

The removal was caused by the increasing amount of space this huge amount of letters occupied. It was found that over 250,000 letters were included in the huge stack, and were sent the little star from every civilized country in the world. According to Post Office officials of Los Angeles, Clara Bow's fan mail will now average 25,000 a month. The actual amount of mail received by the star during the month of July was 33,727 letters. For the month of August the number increased to 35,339; with every indication that this number will be increased to over 40,000 for the months to come this year.

The three tons of letters represented the accumulation of one year's fan mail received by the star. Another month, and the star would have been crowded out of her dressing room apartment. Every one of these letters were answered with an autographed photograph being sent. A special staff has been assigned to handle Miss Bow's fan mail, and their work increases daily.

Miss Bow tops any star in moviedom for the amount of fan mail received. Her closest rival is Charles "Buddy" Rogers, another Paramount star, who is now receiving over 19,000 letters a month, or more than the late Valentino received when at the height of his career.

"Beaux Art Frolic," a Revue DeLuxe with marvelous settings and stage effects, captivating dancing and singing, is the stage feature, which includes Gene Rothman and the Public Playboys Band. Such theatrical names as Earl and Bell, Paul Kirkland, Nino Fucile, Bryant, Rains and Young together with the Gamby Hale girls, are scheduled to appear in this newest Public production devised and staged by Frank Cambria. Additional programme features will be included in the Metropolitan programme, which ushers in the season of entertainment.

The week of October 5th, Jack Holt and Nancy Carroll will be seen at the Metropolitan Theatre in Zane Grey's "The Water Hole"—Paramount's newest pictureization of the great Western writer's story. Some of the scenes are in natural colors.

SHUBERT THEATRE

In the gorgeousness of its scenic settings—the splendor of its musical pageants and in point of number of players concerned—"The Queen's Taste," the new play with music presented by the Messrs. Shubert, which opens a limited engagement at the Shubert Theatre, Boston, beginning Monday, October 1st, is one of the most ambitious offerings of the season.

Taken from the original play, "A Royal Family," in which Annie Russell and Lawrence D'Orsay were starred in 1900, Fanny Todd Mitchell has adapted the book and Mann Holmer has written the lyrics. The music by Albert Nichols is replete with stirring marches, rousing choruses and delightful dance numbers.

The cast includes Jeanette MacDonald, Carl Randall, Alison Skipworth, Eric Blore, William Danforth, Roy Hoyer, Ethel Morrison, H. Cooper Cliffe, Virginia Watson, Gus Alexander, Guy Phillips, Arthur G. Chester, Hale Girls and a large singing and dancing ensemble.

The entire production is under the personal supervision of Mr. J. J. Shubert.

First Door Knockers

Utilized as Weapons

The decorative quality of door knockers has been gaining in recognition and is now held in popular favor, says a writer in Your Home Magazine.

"Door knockers," reads Your Home. "were little known in the obscure reaches of ancient history, and their development from articles of mere utility to objects of art has covered centuries. The Greeks considered it a breach of etiquette to enter a house without warning the inmates. Spartans gave this notice by shouting their arrival, but the Athenians announced themselves by using the knocker, which introduction was doubtless made at the time when doors superseded hangings for purposes of greater privacy or safety. First it consisted of a rod-like piece of iron chained to the door, but unfriendly visitors sometimes wrenched it from the door and used it as a weapon of offense against the inmates. It was then that the form was changed to that of a heavy ring fastened by a strong clamp or plate to the door, thus serving the double purpose of knocker and handle. From Greece the custom was transmitted to the Romans and through their conquests to nearly every country of Europe. It was not long before they were very much elaborated, beveled, chased and designed in many variations, of which reproductions may be found for the door that would be interesting today."

"There are two reasons for this. First, high wages and increased purchasing power plus new discoveries and inventions are encouraging the development of new industries, such as aviation, radio, television, rayon, etc. Second, the old type of family-owned, one-man-controlled business is giving way to large corporations, owned by large numbers of widely scattered stockholders. Such companies are entirely impersonal. Jobs are no longer handed out on the basis of relationship, favoritism, pull, etc. The young man whose inheritance has been one of toil and poverty but who has brains, energy, and character is the one who is succeeding today. In this age of intense competition business can no longer tolerate incompetence or even just ordinary performance. This opens the way for young men and women with character and vision, no matter from whence they come. This applies in all fields; manufacturing, banking, or merchandising. Look at the great banking houses of New York today. Only two or three are being run by the sons of the men who founded them. The great majority are controlled by former clerks who were employees of the founders.

Guinea Fowl Resists

Appeal of the Wild

Guinea fowls have been domesticated all over the United States, comments a scientist of the United States Department of Agriculture, and have had plenty of opportunities to escape to the wild. They have shown little indication of desiring to do so, and this seems rather surprising, in view of the fact that they have done so in some of the islands of the West Indies. They were certainly introduced long ago into most of these islands and are now found in a wild state in Jamaica, Cuba, Porto Rico, Dominica, and a few of the Lesser Antilles. Where the mongoose is present it preys extensively on guinea fowl and keeps their numbers much in check. On Barbuda, in the Lesser Antilles, which was made into a sort of game preserve more than 200 years ago, the birds still flourish. Wild guinea fowl have been directly introduced into the southeastern states in recent years, but the outcome of these experiments is not yet known.

FACTORY WORK TWO PERCENT OFF

Babson Appeals to Employers

Babson Park, Massachusetts, September 28, 1928.

"The most important factor in the business situation today is employment. Steady work for the mass of the people is not only desirable—it is imperative! Otherwise business may undergo a severe reaction. Statistics show that people are living right up to the limit of their incomes. The great majority are absolutely dependent on their weekly or monthly wages to meet their needs which they have taken on during this period when they have been reaching for higher living standards. As long as there is no interruption in the regular pay envelope, business should continue good. Hence, the first thing to watch is the trend of employment. Any real recession would react very quickly on business. Consequently employers should endeavor to keep their men steadily employed insofar as it is possible to do so. Wage reductions should be resorted to only when it is absolutely impossible to avoid them.

It is unfortunate that more complete statistics are not available on this vital question. Authorities disagree widely on the number of unemployed at any given time. It is a very elusive matter, largely because of the "floaters." Such men may be employed at one place one week, and idle in another place the next week. Moreover, many great industries, such as building, and farming there is no regular monthly data on employment.

Manufacturing Employment Fair

"The United States Department of Labor figures on employment in selected manufacturing industries do, however, serve as a guide to the trend of conditions in certain industrial lines. Latest reports are for August. They show a slight increase from the July figures. The low figures in July were to be expected, caused by vacations, inventory shutdowns, and shop repairs. Consequently, the August increase was to some extent a usual seasonal advance. Encouragement is found, however, in the fact that this July to August increase was greater than any occurring between the same months for the past five years.

"It has been customary, when studying economic trends to compare each month with the corresponding month of the year before. On this basis factory employment in August is about 1.6 per cent below last year. This does not mean all lines are employing fewer people. Some industries are employing many more. The total change moreover, is relatively slight from last year and may indeed be attributed largely to the normal yearly decrease that has been taking place as a result of labor saving machinery and improved efficiency, rather than to any general falling off in industrial activity.

"Employment on the farms is generally good. Large crops are being harvested. While on the whole there is no real scarcity of farm labor, there is likewise no surplus.

"Building activity continues in large volume compared with past years, thus assuring work for hundreds of thousands of skilled craftsmen and unskilled laborers. There was, however, a decline of 11 per cent in contracts awarded in August compared with July and 6 per cent compared with August last year. This decline may be only temporary, but if it should continue for several months it easily might create a serious surplus of building labor. Every effort should be made to launch needed public construction as speedily as possible. The volume of road construction is a very important factor in keeping employment up. Building as a whole is a bulwark of prosperity. That is why it is so essential that money rates be kept within bounds. If they advance too high they will tend to check construction for construction purposes just as they did in 1920. Already new bond issues are less numerous. Experience has proven that building continues good just so long as money is plentiful and rates reasonable. Otherwise it tends to slow down.

Employment in Various Industries

"Never have we had more conclusive evidence of the wide difference in prosperity of various industries than at the present time. On the one hand automobile manufacturing is at record levels with employment 30 per cent above last year. On the other hand, cotton textiles are dead with 15 per cent less employment than last year—and last year was far from good in the cotton business. Agricultural implement makers are very active, employing 20 per cent more people, whereas shipbuilding is in the doldrums with 20 per cent fewer than last year.

"Activity in auto plants and some other machinery lines has resulted in a 10 per cent boost in the number of machine tool shop employees. Piano and organ factories have reduced their workers by 14 per cent. Curiously enough pottery making plants show 6 per cent more workers than last year, whereas brick plants show 9 per cent fewer. August is of course, a slack season in the clay and glass working industries. Other industries reporting more employment than last year are ice cream, printing and book-binding, fertilizers, carriages and wagons, women's clothing, millinery and lace goods, glass, enamelled ware, tobacco, and automobile tires. Industries reporting less employment are steam fittings, petroleum refining, cane sugar refining, cast iron pipe, cement, railroad car building, carpets and rugs, hosiery and knit goods, woollens, newsprint and candy.

Opportunities in Executive Field

"Opportunities for the young man of character and ability were never greater than they are now. While it is true that greater production is being obtained from a smaller number of men than 15 years ago, nevertheless there are more opportunities for good men than ever before.

"There are two reasons for this. First, high wages and increased purchasing power plus new discoveries and inventions are encouraging the development of new industries, such as aviation, radio, television, rayon, etc. Second, the old type of family-owned, one-man-controlled business is giving way to large corporations, owned by large numbers of widely scattered stockholders. Such companies are entirely impersonal. Jobs are no longer handed out on the basis of relationship, favoritism, pull, etc. The young man whose inheritance has been one of toil and poverty but who has brains, energy, and character is the one who is succeeding today. In this age of intense competition business can no longer tolerate incompetence or even just ordinary performance. The great majority are controlled by former clerks who were employees of the founders.

What Business Demands of Executives
"My organization has always given special attention to the type and character of new people coming with us. I have always urged my business friends to give earnest study to their personnel problems. There is today an urgent need for executives qualified to cope

His Occupation
"I hear you son has taken up a profession. Mr. O'Casey," remarked the visitor.

"He has, indeed," rejoined the host.

"He's phwat they call a 'cross-examiner'."

"This was too much for the stranger."

"And phwat's a 'cross-examiner?'" he asked.

"For a minute or two O'Casey was at a loss, but eventually he pulled himself together."

"Sure, it's a fellow who asks you questions, an' you answer the questions, an' then he questions the answers," he returned easily.—Montreal Family Herald.

Bird's "Language"

A scientist who has been making a study of the songs and noises made by birds, says that the African finch seems to have a vocabulary of about 300 words, and apparently an alphabet of 24 letters or symbols. Instead of singing when it opens its beak, it really makes a little speech of many words. Often the bird will use a word one day and not use it again for many weeks.

It wakes up at the same time every morning, and usually makes the same morning speech of about 20 words that lasts 14 seconds. Its daily schedule varies less from day to day than that of human beings.

Juvenile Curiosity

Little Margaret had been presented with a splendid toy with which she was never tired of playing; in fact, she played with it all day long.

"Margaret," remarked her mother "how is it that you never play with any of your other toys?"

"Oh, let her play with it," protested the child's father. "As soon as she's novelty wears off she'll stop."

A few minutes later mother noticed her little daughter examining the toy very closely, and asked what she was doing.

"Looking for the novelty that wears off," the little one replied.—Pearson's

Goes With Piano

Jean Ann Blomker, less than four years old, was in a children's day presentation at the church. Her father was trying to get her to give her recitation at home before the eventful day.

"I don't remember it," Jean Ann asserted when her daddy tried to coax her to speak.

"Well, think," he said.

"I am thinking. I know it but I can't say it."

"Well, now how does it go," he begged.

"It goes with the piano," she answered promptly.

Sculpture From Brick

At a recent exhibition of art a well-known sculptor who has acquired a reputation for his work in marble and clay, showed a number of pieces which attracted a great deal of attention because of their peculiar appearance. These were small figures which had been carved from a brick and at first glance they were mistaken for ancient works taken from dusty tombs of the Orient. The burnt clay seemed to lend itself to this use very satisfactorily.

Red Cross Met at Wellesley College

Washington, D. C., September 28—A Regional Conference of Red Cross Chapters in Massachusetts was held in the Alumnae building, Wellesley College, Wellesley Hills on September 24.

Charles W. Homeyer, chairman of the Wellesley Chapter, presided at the morning session which opened at 10 o'clock, and the invocation was by Rev. Lewis W. Hicks of Wellesley. Address of welcome was by Edmund R. Dewing, chairman of the board of selectmen of Wellesley, and Miss Marjorie Dakin, field representative for the Red Cross in Massachusetts spoke on "The Red Cross in Our State". Robert E. Bondy, Manager of the Eastern Area for the Red Cross, addressed the conference on "Opportunities and Responsibilities in Red Cross Service". Discussion following Mr. Bondy's address was led by Rev. Milton I. Grant.

Mrs. George Derby, director of Junior Red Cross for the Boston Metropolitan Chapter, presided at the afternoon session and Dr. Ellen Fitz Pendleton, president of Wellesley College, addressed the conference.

"The Challenge of the Twelfth Roll Call" was the subject of an address by James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations of the Red Cross, and discussion following his talk was led by Mrs. Joseph F. Ryan, chairman of the Winchester Chapter and Arthur G. Rotch, chairman of the Twelfth Roll Call for Boston Metropolitan Chapter.

Mrs. Derby spoke in "Junior Red Cross Enrollment". Following an informal session in which questions were answered, the members of the conferences toured the college grounds.

Congressman Rogers Visits Constituency

Last Saturday, September 22nd, Congressman Edith Rogers visited several towns in his district, including Graniteville, Forge Village, Westford, Littleton, Boxboro, and Stow. She met many of her constituents, and on her return to the office set about doing what she could to assist them with any federal matters which they brought to her attention.

On Monday, she continued her visit to towns of her district, and saw her constituents in Dracut, Collinsville, Tewksbury and Wilmington. Mrs. Rogers enjoys her personal work in the towns and meets a great many of her constituents who have all been notified several days before her coming.

On Tuesday morning Congressman Rogers had a conference with Congressman W. Frank James of Michigan, who is the chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs in the House of Representatives, concerning Camp Devens. Mrs. Rogers has been active in behalf of the establishment of a permanent army camp at Camp Devens, and has succeeded in securing appropriations for permanent buildings there. Two of these buildings are now being erected, and Congressman James is in Massachusetts to inspect them. The two congressmen are discussing the possibility of securing further appropriations for two more buildings at Camp Devens. They joined General Preston Brown of the First Corps Area, Boston, in a flight to Portland, Maine, on Tuesday. The flight was made in a large three-motored plane, but the return to Lowell was made in a smaller plane.

Mrs. Rogers upon returning to Lowell on Tuesday, went directly to Stow, where she addressed the Tuesday Club of Stow. In the evening she attended the Conference of the Federation of Women's Clubs, which was held at the New Ocean House at Swampscott, and made an address on the Development of Aviation.

Last Sunday, September 23, Congressman Rogers addressed a meeting of the Methuen Post of the American Legion, which was held in memory of Mrs. Frank Harrington. A flag was presented to the post on behalf of Mrs. Harrington, which was made in Paris, at the establishment of Worth famous creator of gowns. The flag was made by girls at Worth's, who worked after hours for the flag for this Post. Mrs. Harrington was the oldest gold star mother to attend the American Legion Convention in Paris.

Next Saturday afternoon, Congressman Rogers will attend the Acton Agricultural Association fair, to be held at Acton. Saturday morning she will attend a meeting of the State Republican Convention at Boston. Friday evening, the 28th, Mrs. Rogers will address a meeting at Newark, New Jersey. Saturday evening next, she will attend a meeting at Reading, which is one of the towns in her district.

Earth's Big Bulge

As the earth's crust is by no means rigid it rises and falls under the gravitational attraction of the moon and sun in a manner similar to that of the ocean's tide. Various difficulties have so far prevented exact measurements.

The pressure exerted on spots of the earth's crust by the rising tide of the ocean is another thing that makes it heave and fall. Atlantic tides have caused an observed earth bulge 800 miles away, and it is thought probable that this influence girdles the world.

Masers and Measles

Old wooden drinking-bowls, known as masers, appear to be becoming increasingly popular among wealthy collectors. One of these bowls fetched as much as $50,000, and it is rare to find one in good condition, and with a pedigree at less than $500.

The words "maser" and "measles," by the way, are said to be derived from the same German word "maser," meaning spot, the spotted portion of maplewood being the favorite material employed in the making of these bowls.

May Shed Arm at Will

A startling man jerk off each of its five arms seized in succession; it may save an injured or paralyzed arm; in rare cases there is multiplication by division. Sea cucumbers discharge their viscera in the spasms of capture and may thus escape from an astonished foe. The replacement of the food canal is sometimes accomplished in ten days, though it may take as many weeks.

Keep Up Courage

MOUNTAIN CLIMBING

Andover Man Experiences Being Marooned on Top of Mt. Washington

George A. Christie, who with Mrs. Christie is enjoying his annual vacation at Jackson, N. H. and points in the White Mountains, had a most thrilling adventure during the first week of his stay, when he climbed Mt. Washington accompanied by Gardner Campbell, managing editor of the Wakefield Daily Item.

The trip included an exceptionally heavy storm, cancelling of trains to the summit of Mt. Washington for the first time in twenty years and the establishing of a new age record for mountain climbing by Dorothy Dell, three years old last June, of Newark, N. J.

The day previous to the Mount Washington climb, little Miss Dell, went through the Pool, the Flume, and Lost River in Franconia Notch.

Mr. Christie writes as follows: "Gee I hope we get something unusual." Gordon Campbell said on leaving the Lake of the Clouds that when Joe Dodge chief but master expressed the opinion (and Joe is weather wise for long exposure and experience) that there was a pipping storm coming, well the unusual happened and again the best laid plans etc. went awry. It was unusual in many ways.

We planned to climb Washington via the Ammonoosuc Ravine, spend the night at the Tip Top house and descend the next day to the Lake of the Clouds, start Monroe and Franklin (we had climbed them both a few years ago) ascend Pleasant and then travel down the Bridle trail to the Mizpah Spring cut off. ascend Mts. Jackson and Webster and descend to Crawford Notch via the Webster Cliff trail.

We had ideal weather Wednesday for our trip up the Ammonoosuc Ravine, in my opinion the most beautiful in the White Mountains. The trail runs three-quarters of the way along the river and numerous cascades and waterfalls make the climb very interesting. One fall has a sheer drop of 600 feet in a beautiful pool, forming a gorge, awe-inspiring 400 feet below. The carous were busy enough. Campbell climbed down to the pool for a few shots but yours truly stayed on terra firma but got a magnificent view notwithstanding.

Climbing whets the appetite and selecting a flat rock at the foot of another beautiful fall we started our box lunch. A youngster appeared over the edge of the rock followed by a woman, then a man, then another woman and then another man. The second woman wore house slippers and none of the party were in hiking togs. "How far be it to the top of the mountain?" inquired one of the men. "I told you 2-1-2 miles and 1800 feet more they held a council of war. They were advised it would be impossible to make the top and return before dark so concluded to descend at once. They did.

The boy and the father and mother decided to go as far as the Lakes of the Clouds huts, and they started up. It was just another case of starting on a journey unprepared for the dangers which arise at any moment in these latitudes in late September. A sudden rain storm and they were lost. We lost the vibrant trio at the Lakes of the Clouds but they evidently descended safely, tired, sore and wise.

Approaching the Lakes of the Clouds Mr. Campbell was recognized by Joe Dodge, who was roofing an out building and a few minutes exchange of remarks started for the Summit over the Crawford Bridle trail with Joe's final sally of a pippin of a storm ringing in our ears. Then came Campbell's wish for something unusual. We had it. Reaching the top about 4 o'clock we witnessed a most glorious sunset and took many pictures at various stages. It was a clear night with Portland light and Cape Elizabeth light plainly visible. Berlin to the North loomed up like Coney Island. We hoped for a fine day, but oh what a difference in the morning.

Retiring early to the Tip Top house we had choice of 44 bunk beds, for we were the sole occupants. Choosing an upper berth I could look down on the new Mt. Washington hotel at Bretton Woods ablaze with light. Farther up the lights of Bethlehem and Littleton glimmered in distance like glow worms. But it was lights, for us for we had a hard journey on the morrow.

We got up early so as to be on the trail as speedily as possible and got down to the restaurant in the Summit House for breakfast at 7. When we entered the room the floor on the side facing the south was about 20 rails catching the mops and a man mopping. The tail end of the Florida hurricane had hit the mountain and oh, boy. It didn't rain as we see it rain. In fact it didn't rain at all but there was an abundance of moisture. The clouds were like sponges and with a 70 mile an hour wind the clouds against the eaves and side of the hotel it was easy to imagine what happened to a building which the B. & M. R. neglects to repair. The water sifted under the shingles, ran along the ceiling of the dining room and a smile was your umbrella. Manager Wright said there was more water in the dining room than he had ever seen before and to combat the rising tide, it was necessary to bore holes in the floor and sweep the water into the cellar.

We took the humorous side and retired after breakfast to the writing room which we named the Pompeian Baths, while watching the clouds go by like a man mopping. The tail end of the Florida hurricane had hit the mountain and oh, boy. It didn't rain as we see it rain. In fact it didn't rain at all but there was an abundance of moisture.

the record of being the youngest hiker to reach the top.

The telephones to the Base Station and Fabyan's brought the same answer "Don't dare to send a train over Jacob's Ladder." Manager Wright of the Summit House said it was the first time in his twenty years' experience that he had known a train to be cancelled on account of the weather, and that was that.

We were getting desperate for action and unless a train made the ascent we planned to take a wetting for the first two miles trusting for sunshine further down the carriage road. As a forlorn hope a telephone message to the chief mechanic at the Base brought the welcome news that they would attempt a train to the Summit at 3 o'clock. That forestalled the carriage road hike and also provided transportation back to Jackson. The Newark people had two cars at the Base Station and had no plans for the night but were heading for Dixville Notch next day. They were glad to have a guide in each car through Crawford Notch to Jackson where they spent the night at the Hawthorne.

While awaiting the arrival of the "Marooners Special" I donned sufficient outer garments to keep warm and as dry as possible and took a walk down the carriage road half a mile to the Gulfside trail. It wasn't so bad going down but facing the gale on the return was a different story. The clouds were sweeping up Tuckerman Ravine, over the headwall and Cove and it required considerable "mule" power to keep a footing.

Back in the hospice there were the weary companions resting in hopes of speedy arrival of our train. It was impossible to see 15 feet and everyone was surprised but dejected. The engine's bell clanged at 4 o'clock. Slowly the relief crawled around the east side of the Summit House and finally came to a standstill in front of the main entrance.

There was a rush for our tramping equipment for an immediate start, but not so. There were three passengers on the train, father, mother and child. They had come down from Bethlehem expressly to get to the top of Washington. Arriving at Fabyan's they found all trains cancelled. Unwilling to return without reaching their objective they drove to the Base Station, hung around all day and finally reached the top via the special, but saw nothing. It was a trip into the clouds for them. They spent 10 minutes looking around and sending post cards and then the descent began.

I confess I was rather disappointed in the ride down, which completes all modes of transportation for me, except by airplane. There was positively no kick even going over Jacob's Ladder. Two thousand feet down we entered the sunshine felt and the timber line. Here the trees seemed to lean at an angle, an optical illusion. The trees were straight; we were at an angle. We reached the base at 5:15 p.m., reached Jackson by motor cars at 7, a rather incognito, if thrilling, ending of a well planned trip.

Fall Service on Boston & Maine

Improved fall service to Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill and other Massachusetts points, as well as to Maine and New Hampshire, is provided by the Boston and Maine Railroad's Fall timetables made public today in detail. The new schedules are effective next Sunday with the change from daylight to standard time, and with a few exceptions all trains will be set back one hour.

In addition to the record schedules of the "Flying Yankee," "Pine Tree Limited" and the "Cannonball," which were made public several days ago, the detailed schedules show a general speeding up, made possible by widespread improvements to roadbed and equipment. In the service to Lowell, a new train leaving the New North Station at 10 a.m. will run express to Lowell in the new fast time of 35 minutes, in place of the train now leaving Boston at 9:45. The 11 a.m. with stop at West Medford, Winchester, Woburn, North Andover, Wilmington and North Billerica, will reach Lowell in 50 minutes. The 5:15 train from Boston will now reach Lowell in 35 minutes. Southbound, Lowell will have an express at 7:20 a.m., arriving at Boston at 8:05 a.m., and new speeds in other trains.

These improvements in local service, it was announced, also are extended to New Hampshire points, and to and from which all through trains have been speeded 5 to 15 minutes to give the fastest Boston-Concord runs ever scheduled.

The "Ambassador" for Montreal, will leave Boston at 9 a.m., instead of 11:30 a.m., and the "Alouette," also for Montreal, will leave Boston at 10 a.m., and run on new fast time. Southbound the "Alouette" will be changed to reach Boston at the more convenient time of 7:30 p.m.

Service between Boston and Lawrence and Haverhill also will show time improvements of from two to five minutes, reflected also at Dover and Portland, Me., the through trains on both eastern and western routes having been materially quickened.

The service to Lynn and other North Shore points will be little change, though Lynn gains trains over last winter through continuance of the train leaving Marblehead at 11:39 a.m. and Lynn at 12:05 p.m., through to Boston, as during the summer; and continuance of the train leaving Boston at 3 p.m. through to Marblehead, both of which will be set back one hour. In North Shore service minor readjustments in leaving times and stops have been made as a result of establishment of the "Pine Tree Limited," crack Portland train, on its new 2 hour and 30 minute schedule.

The night train, Down East to Maine and the Maritime Provinces, which has left for years at 7:40 p.m., under the new schedule 3 hours faster than before, will be known as the "Gull" and will leave at 10:40 p.m.

The "Minute Man," Boston to Chicago, will continue to leave the New North Station at 3 p.m., and eastbound it will continue to arrive in Boston at 7:25 p.m. The "Berkshire Flyer," with Chicago connections, will leave Boston as before at 9:30 a.m., and eastbound will reach Boston at 3:10 p.m.

The "Green Mountain Flyer" to Montreal, now leaving Boston at 7:45 a.m., will leave at 8:30 a.m. Southbound it will reach Boston at the more convenient time of 7:50 p.m., instead of 8:05 p.m., as at present.

How to Play BRIDGE

Series 1927-28 by Wynne Ferguson
Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGES"

Copyright 1927, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 33

Two-suited hands are held very frequently at auction and their proper bidding is both interesting and instructive. The following example hands sent in by correspondents and answered by the writer cover many of the important points that come up in two-suited hands:

Example Hand No. 1

Hearts—A, 6
Clubs—A, J, 10, 9, 6
Diamonds—A, Q, 10, 9, 7
Spades—2

Y :
A B :
Z :

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one heart. If A passed, what should Y bid? There was a serious difference of opinion as to whether Y should pass one heart or show his diamond suit, and the argument was referred to the writer for decision. My answer was as follows:

"There are two reasons why I advocate a bid of two diamonds: First, because of the two-suit character of your hand. If the two diamond bid is over-called, you should then show the club suit and thus give your partner the choice. A two-suit hand, if played at the best bid for the combined hands of yourself and partner, is the strongest hand that can be held, and is usually worth from one to three tricks more than the usual suit bid. Under these conditions, in bidding two diamonds, you are not decreasing your chances for game by the bid of the minor suit, but are really increasing the chances.

"Second, there are so many four-card original suits bid these days that it is seldom advisable to leave partner in if you hold only two trumps, even if one is the ace. This, of course, is optional in the usual hand, but with a two-suit holding such as you held, I would regard the two diamond bid as obligatory."

Example Hand No. 2

Hearts—Q, J, 7, 6, 3, 2
Clubs—6
Diamonds—7
Spades—K, J, 8, 5, 4

Y :
A B :
Z :

Hearts—none
Clubs—9, 6, 5
Diamonds—10, 4, 3
Spades—8, 7, 2

Hearts—10, 4, 3
Clubs—8, 7, 2
Diamonds—9, 6, 5
Spades—none

There are no trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y-Z win five of the nine tricks against any defense? This problem is noteworthy because of the duplication of the holdings in all four hands but in different suits. This makes it more intricate. Solution in the next article.

No score, first game. If Z dealt and bid one club, what should A bid?

Answer: "A's proper bid is one heart. Then if overbid, he should bid two spades. Bid in this way, A indicates to his partner that his heart suit is the better, either in top cards or in length. Such a bid is purely defensive and partner should not expect much top strength."

Example Hand No. 3

Y :
A B :
Z :

Hearts—none
Clubs—A, Q, 9, 7, 6, 4
Diamonds—A, Q, 10, 8, 6, 2
Spades—J, 10, 8, 6, 2

Score, Y-Z 10, A-B 10, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one club, A bid three diamonds, Y bid four clubs and B bid four hearts. Should Z bid five clubs or show his spade suit?

Answer: "In this situation, where his partner has assisted his club suit, it would be bad practice to bid four spades. Such a bid gives more valuable information to the opponents than to partner. It tells them that Z has a two-suit hand, one of the strongest types of hands that can be held, and that his chances of making game, either in clubs or spades, is much better than if clubs alone had been bid. For that reason they are more apt to bid five hearts than Z has shown two suits than if he had shown only one.

The Dirt is Flying

This is a strange campaign indeed—an activity so confused, so vague and so garbled that the whole business is a shameful mess. Instead of being confined to sane and logical issues, discussed in an intelligent and straightforward manner, this campaign has leaped the bounds of common sense and is stooping disgracefully to malice, slander and senseless piffle. Worst of all it has given rise to a feeling of religious bitterness and intolerance which is distinctly unworthy of a country nominally founded on religious freedom as much as a century and a half ago.

The most elementary principles of parliamentary government call for a strong ruling party, and a minority party whose main business it is to criticize. Any administration's reelection should depend on its record while in office, the attitude it takes toward new issues of importance, and the caliber of the men who are at its head. Opposing parties ought to be clearly split on the major issue or issues of the day.

But how differently things work out in this country. To start with, there are large areas, particularly in the South, which may be expected to vote a certain way irrespective of a party's record, issues or leaders. To study the situation intelligently and without prejudice never enters the mind of the majority of the voters. Statistics show that most of them vote the way their fathers did, just as they generally attend their fathers' church. A critical independent investigation is too much bother.

In addition to this prejudice and mental lethargy on the part of the citizens at large, we have in this presidential campaign a general evasion of definite stands on questions of first rate importance in our national economy. Take farmers' relief as an example. The Republicans, after eight years in the harness, are still promising farm relief. That must be a great consolation. And the Democrats, with typical political shrewdness, are sidestepping the issue saying that they don't like the "mechanics" of the proposed legislation, thus leaving a convenient and useful loophole permitting any conceivable position. One party has been using "hot air" within council chambers; the other is handing out "blah" on the stump.

Or prohibition. Granted that it is an interesting topic of conversation, could anything be more futile on a live platform? Suppose the wettest wet in the country were elected to the presidency, there isn't a blessed thing he could do to modify the existing situation. Yet party leaders will put up this heavy and attractive smoke-screen, primarily because they lack the conviction to come out with something really worth talking about.

Parties and leaders have been dragged in the mud and covered with slime, and accused, perhaps with just cause but certainly without good taste or graft, corruption . . . everything in fact but blue murder. Political campaigns, like certain newspapers depend for attention on lurid but apparently popular sensationalism, all of which is a remarkable tribute to the sound citizenship of Mr. Average Voter.

The worst part of this campaign of course is the infusion of religious hatred. It is difficult to believe that a country based on the right of every man to worship as he sees fit—or not to worship at all—should be swept by a feeling of so much religious bitterness. We still have a long, long distance to climb up that difficult path of religious tolerance. Yet France, a strong Catholic country, has a Protestant president. Some day perhaps we shall learn this most elementary lesson of respect for another man's opinions. Certainly this issue—if such it be—cuts no ice so far as steering the ship of state is concerned. Yet what an infamous holla-balloo. For further details read that very patriotic paper "Fellowship Forum."

It is interesting and satisfying to read the following words of Governor Fuller on this question:

"Candidates for public office have no right to drag in racial and religious prejudice into a campaign," he said. "A candidate must have a mighty low ideal, and a low conception of the mind and the ideals of the people who will resort to these things. It is a grave mistake not to have ideals away above party, creed, or race."

Yet, since the general public is so low-minded as to be satisfied with mean or petty sensations, they are presumably getting a big kick out of the present campaign. When the hurly-burly's done it can probably be said of them that "a good time was had by all."

Editorial Cinder

The appeal from the national headquarters of the American Red Cross, for flood and hurricane relief has placed Andover's quota at nine hundred dollars. Andover has never failed to oversubscribe its quota for this worthy cause and it is hoped that the present appeal will be met with the customary generous response. The present need of assistance is very great and contributions will be received gratefully by the local committee. Checks may be sent to Charles C. Kimball, treasurer, or deposited with Chester W. Holland at the Andover National Bank. Let's send Andover "over the top" again.

Observed 25th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Souter of Washington avenue quietly observed the 25th anniversary of their marriage at their home on Sunday. They were the recipients of cards of congratulation and best wishes from a host of friends, and on Monday evening at the meeting of the Pythian Sisters were surprised by the presentation of a silver coffee set, percolator, sugar, creamer and tray.

After the surprise was off the gathering indulged in a social hour with dancing and refreshments.

A mock marriage featured the entertainment program with the following taking part: Bride, Mrs. David MacDonald; bridesmaid, Mrs. Henry Fairweather; maid of honor, Mrs. Samuel R. Harris; best man, Mrs. Minnie Rodger; flower girl, Mrs. Helen Gorrie; train bearer, Mrs. John McGrath; father of bride, Mrs. Thomas Thinn; and minister, Mrs. George Cilley. The wedding marches were played by Mrs. Kerr Sparks. Refreshments of sandwiches, scones, cake, and tea were served by the following committee: Mrs. George Cilley, Mrs. Minnie Rodger, Mrs. Thomas Thinn, Mrs. Minnie Fairweather, Mrs. David MacDonald, Mrs. John McGrath, Mrs. Helen Gorrie, Mrs. Thomas MacLeish, Mrs. S. R. Harris, Thomas Gorrie and David McDonald.

Mr. and Mrs. Souter were married in Andover by Rev. Frank R. Shipman. They have always made their home in town and have four children, James, John, Alfred and Marion, also one grandchild.

Mr. Souter belongs to Garfield Lodge Knights of Pythias and the Plumbers and Steamfitters Union. He is an active member of the Free church and has been a trustee. Mrs. Souter is a member of Garfield Temple, Pythian Sisters.

They have the best wishes of many friends on this occasion.

FIRST OF FALL BRIDALS

The chance of the church, in which the ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. H. A. Wilkinson, was banked with yellow and white chrysanthemums. The bride-to-be, who is a graduate of Abbot academy, class of 1923, and who also attended the Leland Powers school in Boston was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. Irving E. Rogers of North Andover, a sister of the bridegroom acted as matron of honor, and Miss Evelyn Gilman of West Roxbury was maid of honor. The attendants included: Mrs. George E. Alger of Springfield; Mrs. Herbert Home of Bradford; Mrs. Allen Clarke of Boston; Mrs. Ralph Gow of Worcester; Miss Florence Mills of West Roxbury, and Miss Ruth Holmes of Boston.

Mr. Buttrick had Irving E. Rogers of Lawrence as his best man. The ushers at the reception which immediately followed the ceremony and which was held at the Hotel Somerset, Boston included: Leo F. Daley of Andover; Geoffrey Glendinning of Lawrence; Ralph Gow of Worcester; Maxwell Martin of New York city; George Alger of Springfield; Robert Partridge of New York city, and Lawrence Humphrey of New York city.

After an extended motor trip, the couple will reside at Mamaroneck, N. Y. Mr. Buttrick is a graduate of Phillips Andover Academy, class of 1923, and the Philadelphia College of Textile Engineering, class of 1925. Mr. Buttrick now holds a responsible position with the Hunter Manufacturing and Commission company of New York city.

The engagement of the couple was announced a year ago last May. Friday evening, members of the bridal party were entertained at a buffet supper, given by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Haig, friends of the bride, after which they attended a party given at the Club Karmine in Boston.

DUNNELLS—BALCOLM

Miss Emily Smith Balcolm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar I. Balcolm, 25 Annis street, North Andover, became the bride of William Winslow Dunnells, son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Dunnells, 6 Sutherland street, Shawheen, at a pretty ceremony at 4 o'clock, Saturday afternoon in St. Paul's Episcopal church, North Andover. Rev. Raymond Kendrick, rector, performed the ceremony. The decorations were palms and garden flowers.

The bride had as her matron of honor her sister, Mrs. Leonard Walsh of New Jersey and the best man was Clifford W. Dunnells of Andover, brother of the bridegroom. The ushers were Leonard Walsh, George C. Dunnells and Herbert Gardner of Andover and Robert Ewing of Middleton.

The bride wore a gown of white crepe and a lace veil on train and caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and valley lilies. Her attendant wore a frock of maize georgette with a hat to match and she carried an arm bouquet of tea roses.

A reception was held in the parish hall immediately after the ceremony. After a wedding trip the couple will make their home at 11 Fletcher street, Shawheen.

The bride is a graduate of Johnson High school and she has been employed in the Boston office of the American Woolen company. The bridegroom is a graduate of the Essex Agricultural school and is employed at Smith & Cutts company, Andover. He is a member of St. Matthew's lodge, A. F. & A. M.

HUGHES—DONOVAN

At a nuptial mass in St. Augustine's church Monday morning Miss Ida Genevieve Donovan of North Main street became the bride of Frank C. Hughes, son of Mrs. Margaret Hughes of Essex street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John A. Whelan O. S. A.

They were attended by Miss Lillie Z. Donovan, sister of the bride as bridesmaid, and Joseph C. Hughes, brother of the bridegroom as best man. The wedding march was played by Miss Annie G. Donovan, organist. The bride wore white chiffon velvet and cap trimmed with white feathers. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaid wore chanel red chiffon velvet and picture hat to match and carried a bouquet of radiant roses.

A reception and wedding breakfast was held at the bride's home immediately after the ceremony. During the reception Howard Duncan of Tufts college and Methuen rendered piano selections. The house was decorated with palms and cut flowers.

The newly married couple left on an extended wedding trip to New York and Atlantic City and will be at their new home on Carmel road after November 1.

Clan Johnston Chorus Elects

The first meeting of the chorus of Clan Johnston, 185, O. S. C. was held Monday evening. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Director, Alex Bertram; assistant director, David Wallace; secretary, Alex Valentine; treasurer, George Keith; and pianist, Miss Minnie Valentine.

The chorus is now beginning its third year. During the past two years it has been unusually successful and has made many local appearances as well as those out of town. The chorus will give its first entertainment program this year on the occasion of the installation of the new officers of Clan Johnston to be held next month. The quartet sang at the Free church Wednesday and will sing at the West church tonight. They will also entertain at the concert to be held by Clan Fraser in Amesbury Wednesday evening, October 10. The members of the quartet: Robert Cargill, John Caldwell, Alex Bertram and George Carmichael.

Pleasantly Surprised at Windsor Club Meeting

Miss Hazel Reed, who is soon to be married to William Stoford of Methuen, was the recipient of many pretty gifts at a miscellaneous shower tendered her by her friends in the Windsor sewing club, held at the home of Miss Alexina Harris on Washington avenue on Tuesday evening.

Sewing occupied the first part of the evening, and after everyone had arrived, a mock marriage was indulged in to the delight of the gathering. Those who took part were bride, Miss Ruth Saunders; bridesmaid, Miss Bertha Cuthill; best man, Marjorie White; flower girl, Mrs. Mary Harris; minister, Mrs. Gladys Deymond.

Then to Miss Reed's great surprise she was presented with a giant water lily filled with gifts, which included linen, kitchen utensils, pictures and so forth. A luncheon was served to the guests by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. S. R. Harris, consisting of chicken patties, potato chips, pickles and olives, rolls, coffee and a bridal cake.

Those present were Misses Ruth Saunders, Alexina Harris, Marjorie White, Bertha Cuthill, Bessie Marr, Miriam Marr, Lily Harris, Hazel Reed, Mrs. Gladys Deymond, Mrs. Mary Harris, Mrs. Lydia Reed, Mrs. S. R. Harris.

Widow of Late Judge is Married

Announcement has been received by local friends of the marriage on August 21 at Chicago, Ill., of Mrs. Clara Louise Mahoney, widow of the late Judge Jeremiah J. Mahoney of Lawrence and Andover, to Edmond Fleming Wright, a young teacher at Harvard University.

First Dance of Season

The first school dance of the season will be held on Friday evening, October 5th, under the auspices of the Panchard Staff of the Panchard High school.

Snappy, up-to-the-minute, jazzy music will be furnished by the Cavalier orchestra. The committee in charge is: Madeline Kimball, chairman; Mary Partridge, Walter Scobie, Dorothy Ruhl and Murray Urquhart.

Abbot Academy Notes

On Sunday evening, September 23, the Rev. Edmund A. Burnham, D.D., of Taunton conducted the service in Abbot Hall.

The first "corridor stunts" of the season were given in Davis Hall on Tuesday evening, September 25. Because of Wednesday's rain, the trip to Plymouth which had been planned was postponed.

The Rev. Markham W. Stackpole of Milton, trustee of the Academy, will be the speaker at the service on Sunday evening, September 30. This will be a choral service, and the musical program follows:

Organ prelude—Andante tranquillo William Byrd (1543-1625)

Chorale—Now all the woods are sleeping Johann Sebastian Bach (1685-1750)

Anthem—"Valeat illi dir geben," from the cantata "Christus, der ist mein Leben" Johann Sebastian Bach (1685-1750)

Organ music—Prelude Autonne Joseph Bonnet

Punchard Prepares For Opening Game

Coach Eugene V. Lovely started preparing Monday for the opening game of the season with Wakefield High at the latter's grounds next Saturday afternoon. Handicapped with the loss of two veteran players through ineligibility the suburban coach is working hard in order to have a formidable aggregation in shape to give the Wakefield team another trimming.

Last Saturday the latter team lost 18 to 0, to Methuen High and Coach Lovely is anxious that his charges roll up a much higher score against the opposition.

Monday Bill Crowley ran Emalie and Forsythe as his back-team at quarterback with Gouck field mates. All shined up as a fast quarter, although not very heavy. In the forward line were Greene and Russell, ends; Ladd and Stickney, tackles; and Rondeau and Page guards, with Craik, at center.

This however, is but a tentative lineup and has not all indications of being the eleven that will open the season next Saturday. Phil Allen, veteran tackle, who was out of the game last year with injuries, is working out but three days a week and is likely to be in the starting lineup. Just whether or not he will be in the backfield of line is not known as yet.

South Church Notes

Rev. Frank R. Shipman, former pastor of the South church will serve as acting pastor for the next three months.

The South Church school resumed classes Sunday morning. Rally day will be next Sunday.

A supper for the Church school teachers and officers was held Wednesday evening in the vestry at 6 o'clock. Dr. Shipman was present to meet the teachers on this occasion. Mrs. Alexander Wadsworth was in charge of the supper arrangements.

The first fall meeting of the Woman's Union was held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Gula Graves Plummer told about the Ingleside Home School for Girls. Tea was served.

THE NEW PLAYSTEAD

An Appreciation

To many of us who played football and baseball on the grounds about the Old Punchard Building years ago the New Playstead seems like the realization of a wonderful dream—something that we hoped for but hardly expected to see in our day.

It seems to me that we owe our thanks, first to our citizens who so generously voted the money that made the dream a reality.

Then to the Legion Boys and all other friends who formulated the plans and brought them before the Town so attractively and efficiently.

And to the Board of Public Works also for their careful and effective supervision, and to all others who by advice and interest have helped in any way.

This money and effort have given to us for all our boys a playing field second to none in this vicinity.

A good thing has been done. The desire of our boys and girls shall have more and better opportunities than we had in our childhood and is a credit to our Town of Andover.

MYRON E. GUTTERSON

Absentee Voting

The following from the Boston Herald of September 27, is surely worth reprinting and is given herewith:

There is no better indication of the intensity of interest in the coming election than the word from the secretary of state's office that at least 20,000 residents of Massachusetts, and probably many more than that, unable to be at home on Nov. 6, will avail themselves of the absent voter law and cast their ballots by mail. No definite figures are available as to the number of persons who have taken advantage of this privilege in years past, but it is certain that a far larger number than ever before will act under the law this year.

The privilege of voting by mail applies only to voters who on election day will be two or more municipalities removed from their city or town. If only in some adjoining locality, the voter must return to vote in person in his home precinct or lose his vote. The privilege does not extend to a voter who is ill at home in the district where he votes.

The absent voter may apply for a ballot any time up to election day, and if the ballot is returned to the city or town clerk before the hour of closing the polls on Nov. 6, it will be counted. The ballot must be marked in person in the presence of an official authorized by law to administer oaths, and of no other person, but the official is not allowed to see how the voter marks his ballot nor have any conversation regarding the vote.

An absent voter who is unable to mark his ballot may have it marked for him by the clerk of a court of record, who shall add in writing a statement of the fact that the voter is unable to write, stating the reason.

Expresses Thanks

At the annual meeting of the Amesbury Chamber of Commerce, held recently, His Excellency, the Governor, was kind enough to commend the service in the Massachusetts Senate and to say that if the voters of the 4th Essex Senatorial District could spare me, he would give me serious consideration for Insurance Commissioner. I have carefully considered this matter and while I am deeply appreciative of the commendation of the Governor, I feel that I can be of greater service by continuing in the Senate of Massachusetts. I am very grateful to the people of Andover and North Andover for the fine endorsement given me at the recent Primary and shall endeavor to serve them faithfully.

Mal Hallett at Roseland Tonight

Roseland patrons bid farewell to the incomparable Mal Hallett tonight. This peerless leader retains the tremendous popularity that has always been his portion in this district. In spite of the appearance at Roseland of such big names as B. A. Rolfe, Ben Bernie, Ed McNelly and Gene Rodemich, Mal Hallett still stands supreme as the greatest crowd magnet of them all. The mere announcement of Hallett's coming has invariably meant capacity gatherings.

Naturally, Roseland is prepared to be host tonight to the largest throng of the season. It will be Hallett's last appearance of the year and everybody will want to be on hand to bid Mal good luck on the eve of his return to the Arcadia on Broadway, New York, where the peerless leader is scheduled to open a ten-day engagement next Monday evening. It is a certainty that Mal will have something special to offer in the way of vaudeville features this evening. There will be dancing until one o'clock.

Forty Hours' Devotion

The forty hours devotion opened in St. Augustine church this morning with a high mass at 8 o'clock. Mass Saturday morning will be at the same hour. Holy communion will be administered Friday and Saturday mornings at 6 o'clock.

The forty hours services will come to a close on Sunday evening.

Obituaries

MRS. JOS HILTON

Mrs. Bertha (Garside) Hilton, aged 55 years, wife of Jos Hilton of 188 North Main street, died last Friday evening at the family home following a long illness.

Besides her husband she is survived by three sons, James Henry, Herman Jos and John G. Hilton; six daughters, Mrs. J. J. Long, Alice G., Ethel L., Lydia D., Elizabeth M., and Bertha H. Hilton; one grandson; and two sisters, Sophia Garside of Andover and Mrs. M. Nickerson of Norfolk Downs.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock services were conducted at the late home by members of the American Legion auxiliary. Services were conducted at 2 o'clock in Christ church by Rev. C. W. Henry. The choir sang "Lead Kindly Light" during the services. Interment was in the family lot in Christ church cemetery.

A delegation from Garfield temple, 56, Pythian Sisters, of which the deceased was a charter member, attended the funeral.

AUGUST FREDRICKSON

August Fredrickson, foreman on the William M. Wood estate in Shawheen Village was found dead at the foot of a flight of stairs at his home on Thursday morning by one of his daughters. After medical aid had been summoned, the doctor said that he undoubtedly died before the fall of the stairs, being the victim of an attack of heart failure. Mr. Fredrickson was about 55 years of age. His wife died a year ago.

He leaves eight children, Arvid, Carl and Ralph, who are married and live in Lawrence, and Hazel, Esther, Anna, Ida and Mildred who reside at home. There are also three brothers, Peter, Charles and John, all of Andover.

The funeral will be held at the late home Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment will be in the family lot in West Parish cemetery.

Calvary Baptist Church Notes

This evening, Friday, a rally of the church will be held consisting of a banquet at 6:30 o'clock at which Dr. and Mrs. Fowler will be guests of honor. This will be followed by an entertainment. C. F. Gegenheimer of Methuen is chairman of the occasion. An address of welcome on behalf of the congregation will be given to Dr. Fowler by E. G. Gay, and to Mrs. Fowler by Mrs. Balcom for the Woman's Federation. Musical selections will be rendered by the Calvary choir and short addresses given by Mrs. William C. Farley, Henry D. Grimes and G. A. Mellen. The welcome hymn was written by Miss Mavis Fieldhouse.

The Bible

To the Editor of the Townsman,
Dear Sir:

In Radio language "begging the indulgence" of Scientists, Evolutionist, Parliament and Bishops—struggling with the revision of the Prayer Book, may I call the attention of your readers to an article by William Lyon Phelps given in Carnegie Hall to those citizens of New York who were descendants of the Pilgrims who, speaking not as a churchman but as the professor of English literature at Yale University, said:

"Although the Pilgrims did not bring a library, they brought a Book to New England. The King James version of the Bible was then a new Book. It was only nine years old. That Book is the best-written work in the English language, greater than any philosopher's or any novelist's, because it contains in its own pages the greatest novels, the greatest short stories, the greatest essays and the greatest philosophy and the greatest beauty of thought any language ever combined; greater than all the other books in the world can rival."

Prof. Phelps was elaborating the point that only one of the Pilgrims can be considered to have been an educated person. But in the Bible, their precious King James version, they found abundant compensation for their lack of the source of the schools, as well as of the religious development of New England and of the civilization that New England distributed to many other parts of the United States. Authorities on the English language and literature many times have emphasized the argument made in this Carnegie Hall address. Prof. Phelps was not indulging in hyperbole. And the King James translation, moreover, still holds its place in spite of the attempts of scholars to render the original more accurately and yet secure popularity for their work. Speakers and writers, statesmen and reformers, poets and novelists, find in the pages of the old King James version a great treasury whence they derive their most telling quotations, metaphors, illustrations and poetical renderings of the perennial dreams and aspirations of the human race.

Former Andover Athlete Passes Away

Laurence Tweedy, former Phillips Andover academy and Yale freshman football player, died recently of spinal meningitis while attending camp at Shin Pond, So. Orange, New Jersey.

Tweedy who was 25 years of age played on the Andover academy football team in 1922 making his letter. He also participated in track. He then attended Roxbury school, New Haven, Ct., and then entered Yale. While at the latter university he played as a member of the Yale freshmen eleven.

His death will no doubt be shocking news to many of his friends and classmates as he was one of the most popular boys at the school while going there.

St. Augustine's Notes

The Forty hours' devotion opened this Friday morning with a high mass at 8 o'clock.

Holy Communion will be distributed Friday and Saturday mornings at 6 o'clock. Mass will be celebrated Saturday morning at 8 o'clock.

A fifth anniversary high mass of requiem was offered Monday morning for the late Mrs. Agnes Daley Lyons.

A month's mind high mass of requiem was offered Tuesday morning at 7:30 o'clock for the late Mrs. May Chadwick.

A Lot for a Little

On Saturday evening, from 5 to 7, in the vestry of the Baptist Church, the eagerly anticipated supper under the auspices of the Philanthropy will be held. Those who have attended these suppers in the past will need no urging to come.

The menu has been prepared to appeal to the most fastidious, as well as for those of most ravenous appetite, as the following will show—baked beans and brown bread, cold meat loaf, rolls, cabbage salad, relishes, cream, and coffee. You can have all you wish of the above for the small sum of 40 cents.

Fares Increased on Trolley Lines

Garfield S. Chase, Lawrence manager of the Eastern Massachusetts Street railway, announced an increase in fares in the Lawrence district, Wednesday morning, same to go into effect on October first next.

On that date, dollar tickets, good for sixteen rides, will entitle bearers to fourteen rides, while the fifty cent ticket for nine rides on the Belt Line route, will be good for only eight rides.

The increase was made upon vote of the Board of Public Trustees, and was necessitated by the recent increase in wages of three cents granted to all employees of the street railway.

Birthday Party

Miss Eleanor Jenkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jenkins of South Main street was tendered a birthday and card party at her home Wednesday evening.

Cards were enjoyed and souvenirs were awarded as follows: At Andover, second prize, Virginia Abercrombie, vanity case; consolation prize, Doris Gates, box of chocolates.

Refreshments were served by the hostess. The present were: Bessie Downs, Charlotte Hovey, Ella Larkin, Doris Gates, Virginia Abercrombie, Etta Larkin, Eleanor Jenkins, Helen Platt, Dorothy Winn, Irma Carter, Annabelle Leake and Pauline Burt.

After the bridge playing refreshments were served by the hostess.

Monday Afternoon Bridge Club

The Monday afternoon bridge club met at the home of Miss Grace Higgins on Monday afternoon.

Bridge was played and the souvenirs were awarded as follows: Grace Higgins, first, and Mrs. Walter Buxton, consolation. The hostess served refreshments to her guests.

Basketball Coach Back From Trip Abroad

Alan R. Blackmer, instructor in English and head coach of the Phillips Andover academy basketball team resumed his duties at the reopening of school after he left of a European tour.

He was appointed at Andover in the fall of 1926. He prepared for college at Oak Park high school and then entered Williams college where he excelled in basketball before graduating with an A.B. degree in 1924.

The following year he taught at the University of Chicago and then came to Andover. During the past year he with his wife toured Europe.

Harry Jones, ex-Phillips Andover academy baseball captain, visited former classmates and friends at the school recently. Jones who was caught on the ball team there for the past two years and led last year's team will enter Yale university this fall.

Skea-Mrs. Edmonds Team in Bowling Green Victory

The finals in the Shawheen Bowling Green doubles were won by James Skea and Mrs. Edmonds who played against David Strachan and Mrs. John Greenhow for the championship the score being 21-9 at the 20th end, the final end not being played.

Some good shots were made by the losers who were lying five by the jack several times, but by clever plays by Mr. Skea, they were either reduced to one or put out altogether. The score was tied at the seventh end, after which the winners kept steadily ahead to the finish.

Mrs. Edmonds: 0-1-2-3-4-4-4-6-7-9-9-11-14-15-18-19-19-21-21-21-21.

Strachan and Mrs. Greenhow: 1-1-1-1-1-2-4-4-4-5-5-5-5-5-5-6-6-8-9-9.

With the score tied at the 21st end, Mr. Skea and Mrs. Edmonds won the semifinals of the Shawheen Bowling Green doubles on Shawheen Green Saturday afternoon by one bowl.

The winners were ahead 13 to 1 at the end of the ninth when their opponents, George Fyfe and Miss Carrie Robertson, began to creep up and a score of four on the 15th end brought them within six of the other side.

The winners stayed at 15 while the others gradually lessened the difference, so that an extra end had to be played to determine the semifinals. The score was Skea and Edmonds, 16; Fyfe and Robertson, 15.

Death

Odd Fellows Choose James Craik for Noble Grand

The annual election of officers of Andover Lodge, 230 I. O. O. F., was held Wednesday evening at the meeting in Fraternal hall.

The following officers were elected: Noble Grand, James B. Craik; vice grand, John Holmeland; recording secretary, Herbert W. Ford; treasurer, Alexander MacKenzie; financial secretary, Ralph T. Berry; trustee for three years, William Faulkner; and delegates to the Grand Lodge convention, George Stott, David M. May and Herbert W. Ford.

Ambulance in Collision

The Andover fire department ambulance, being operated by Kerr Starks, was slightly damaged Wednesday night when it collided with the rear end of an automobile on South Union street. Thomas McDonald of Haverhill, who was being taken to the General hospital from a physician's office in Andover, was uninjured as was the operator.

Local Woman at Regional Conference

Mrs. David H. Munro, Phillips street, Andover, recently named an associate of the Church Home Society of Boston, the child-caring agency of the Episcopal Church in Massachusetts, has been invited to represent her parish at a Regional Conference of the 135 parish representatives and the Board of Directors in the crypt of the Cathedral Church of St. Paul, Boston, on Wednesday, October 3.

This conference, to which more than 200 clergy of the Diocese, members of the Diocesan Council and of the Church's Department of Social Service have also been invited, is the first of its kind ever held by the Diocese of Massachusetts, and an honorary president of the Church Home Society, who has just returned from abroad, will open the all-day meeting at 10:30 on the introduction of Charles R. Nutter of the Board of Directors, chairman of the meeting.

The Hon. B. Loring Young, of Weston, former Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, last week elected Republican nominee for U. S. Senator, will be the principal speaker at the morning session. Others on this program will be Mrs. Charles Russell Peck of Boston and Princeton, Mass., first vice president of the Society; Miss Katharine P. Hewins, executive director, and Jeffrey R. Brackett, Ph.D., member of the board and also a member of the Advisory Board of the State Department of Public Welfare, and chairman of the Diocesan Department of Social Service, who will speak on the work the Episcopal church is doing among friendless girls.

Following a luncheon for the associates and special guests, the afternoon session will open with a short talk by Miss Isabel R. Hays of the Church Home Society staff, on "Glimpses into a Visitor's Day".

Frederick H. Briggs of 449 Beacon street, Boston, associate for Trinity Church, will speak on the work which the associates are doing for children in their parishes. Then will follow four round table conferences in the Cathedral rooms. The subjects and speakers will be: "Our Older Girls," Miss Hewins; "Are We Too Quick to Use the Courts?" a discussion of the community's responsibility toward young women who find their way to corrective institutions—by Mrs. Jessie D. Hodder, superintendent of the State Reformatory for Women at Sherborn; "Ups and Downs of 449 Beacon Street," Miss Lela M. Cheney, R.N., of the Church Home Society staff; and "How Do Adopted Turn Out?" by Miss Willilla O. Shearer of the Church Home Society staff.

The morning meeting will be open to the public.

Smith and Dove Team Takes Honors

Smith and Doves delighted the local fans at Andover Saturday in defeating the Fox River Shamrocks of Quincy by two clean goals in a Boston District League game.

For the first time before the home fans Smith and Doves turned out bedecked in new uniforms, dark blue with white monogram that gave the Andover lads a neat looking appearance.

Smith and Doves at times have taken the measure of many strong teams on the local pitch at Andover and Saturday's victory over the Shamrocks of Quincy can be added to the historic contests of many grim fought struggles for soccer supremacy.

The visitors won the toss for the choice of ends and D. Gentiles started the ball rolling in the presence of a fair attendance of fans. A brilliant run by McLaughlin, who was in the bud by Lanson who gained possession and contributed a nice pass to McKay for the visitors into right to dart forward but came to be stopped by Joe Gentiles when becoming dangerous.

A grand run by McCullough on the right was instrumental in opening the scoring for the Doves when a well directed pass placed Scott in possession for the right to beat Steele with a good drive that had the goalie beaten all the way as the ball entered the corner of the net.

This score aroused the visitors who after some good combined play invaded the Doves goal area, where Greer came within a ace of beating McCullough with a drive that struck the upright to say—fortunately for the Doves cleared by Craig. It was a close call with the Doves goalie apparently expecting the ball to pass out wide of the target, much to his great surprise.

Both teams struggled hard at this stage on an even tussle each goal being visited in turn. Some nice play by McLaughlin gave McCullough a chance to drive who met with the hardest of luck when the ball struck the upright with Steele well beaten, S. Sanson clearing his lines from the rebound.

The Shamrocks pressed as McGlenigle got away to serve the left winger, but McFarlane stopped his progress and presented D. Gentiles with a pass only to be pulled up by Sanson.

Both teams played cleverly up to the interval when half time was called with Smith and Doves leading 1 to 0.

The second half opened in spirited fashion the Shamrocks making the first invasion only to find the Doves' defense solid in turning the visitors back.

The Doves with ten men as Denholm was out injured, was more than holding its own despite the handicap and the fans got a thrill when McLaughlin saved from under the bar.

McKay for the visitors moved quickly and a line drive found McCullough handling and losing possession. The Doves got a scare as H. Steele dashed in only to pass up a glorious chance by booting the ball outside of the upright.

Steele the Shamrock's goalie was next in evidence with a great save from Dave Gentiles, when the goalie lunged himself at the ball to keep it out while outstretched on the ground; fortunately for the Shamrocks there was no Smith and Dove player on the spot to take advantage of a good opening and the ball was cleared.

WEST PARISH

The Merrill Chapter X. B. K. will meet on Tuesday evening in the vestry.

Miss Esther M. Lewis, a student nurse at M. H. H. visited at her home on Saturday.

Monday evening the R. P. C. Club girls gave Miss Nan Scobie a shower in honor of her coming marriage.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet with Mrs. Herbert Merrick Lowell street on Wednesday at 2.30 o'clock.

Essex Pomona will meet with West Newbury Grange on Thursday, October 4. An interesting program has been planned.

The Ladies' Aid Society will hold their Annual Harvest Sale and supper in the West Church vestry. The Ladies' Club will have charge of the Fancy Work Table.

On Friday, October fifth the R. P. C. Girls' Club will hold a card party at the home of Miss May Noyes, Lovejoy road the proceeds of which will go to aid the "Hurricane Sufferers."

This evening is Scotch Night at the West Church Vestry. Supper will be served from six-thirty to eight o'clock. The Clan Johnston Quartet will entertain with readings and songs. Tickets may be obtained from any of the committee and at the door.

Andover Grange met on Tuesday evening, Charles P. Lillie spoke on "The Panama Canal," in a most interesting manner. Light refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The next meeting October 9, the first and second degrees will be worked on the fall class.

Mrs. Herbert Merrick is chairman of the committee for the Rummage Sale which the Ladies' Aid Society will hold in the basement of the Baptist Church on Friday, October 5 from ten o'clock until five o'clock. Any one having a donation which they wish to have called for may telephone G. K. Cutler's residence, 226-W.

Fine play by the Doves' front line gave the Shamrocks' defense an anxious time of it hereabouts, instrumental from a ergetic half back line that held a firm grip on the visitors' line attack.

The Doves increased the lead, when Scott and McCullough moved with precision for the winger to cross the ball over to D. Gentiles to slip between the backs and beat Steele with a good drive. Time was called later with the score 2 to 0.

The line-up:

Would Save Her Feet

The picture on the screen showed a poor old woman, cast off by her cruel children, trudging wearily along the road. The pathos of it brought tears to the eyes of a well-dressed woman who sat with her little boy in one of the front rows. The boy heard his mother sob. "Don't worry, ma," he said comfortingly. "When I grow up to be a man I won't let you go to the poorhouse like that."

"Won't you, dear?" she said. "What will you do?"

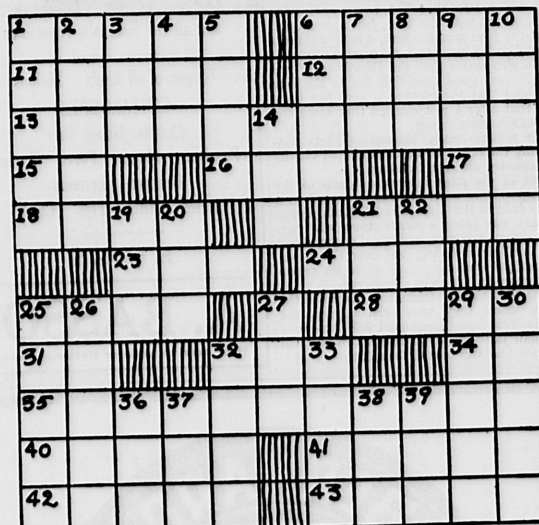

Dr. John Roach Stratton is sometimes accused of narrowness and intolerance, yet his views are often charitable in the extreme. A lady said to Dr. Stratton at a reception in New York:

"You can tell a girl's character by her clothes."

"O, surely," said Dr. Stratton, "surely girls have more character than that."

Former Resident Injured

Thomas F. Cronin, a former resident of Ballardvale, who makes his home in Quincy suffered painful injuries in a recent automobile accident, when he was thrown through the windshield of a truck after it had collided with an elevated track support on Atlantic avenue, Boston.

Cronin had just left his truck in a Somerville garage, and was riding home on another one. The impact of the collision, almost tore the truck body from the vehicle and Cronin was tossed through the glass and against the support. He received painful lacerations to the face; bruises to his legs and a slight fracture of the bone over his eye.

He was rushed to the Haymarket Relief hospital, where his hurts were attended and he was later removed to his home.

Kindergarten Teacher Appointed

At a meeting of the B. V. V. I. S. Children's auxiliary kindergarten committee, Miss Eleanor Driscoll of North Andover was appointed teacher of the kindergarten class.

Miss Driscoll is a graduate of the Lesley Kindergarten School of Cambridge, having taken a three-year training course.

She had her practice teaching in the Leahy school in Lawrence and during the past year she has been a substitute teacher in the Shawheen school. She comes here with excellent recommendation from Superintendent Sanborn.

To Give Recital

Miss Eunice O'Donnell is preparing a program of piano music to be given in the near future. Her program will include numbers by Chopin, Haydn, Carpenter, Hopkirk and Van Wilm. Miss O'Donnell is a pupil of Miss Helen Louise Moody, local piano teacher.

Autoist and Girl Companion Suffer Cuts in Crash

William Townsend of 180 Park street, Lawrence, received cuts on the face and minor bruises when the Buick touring car which he was operating struck the iron girders of the bridge over the Shawheen river at Andover street, Ballardvale Sunday afternoon. The front midguard of the machine and the windshield were damaged.

Townsend told the police that he shouted at the small boy to get down off the fence on the bridge, fearing that he would fall into the river. While concentrating his attention on the boy the machine struck the bridge. A girl riding with Townsend was shaken up and was also cut by flying glass.

Surprise Party

Wednesday evening a surprise party was held at the home of Mrs. Prudence Brown of Center street in honor of Mrs. Lynette Wood, who is leaving town today to make her residence in South Lawrence.

Mrs. Wood was presented with a bridge lamp by Mrs. Edwin W. Brown in behalf of the Bradlee Mothers' club and friends who gathered to show their esteem and to wish her happiness in her new home.

During the evening games were played and Mrs. Lynette Wood and James Bell favored with solos. Mrs. George Moody, Mrs. Frank Cramton and Mrs. Frances Benson entertained with readings. Community singing was enjoyed with Miss Rita Bell at the piano.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake and candy were served. Mrs. Lynette Wood won prizes during the games.

Elect Officers

The annual election of officers was held Wednesday afternoon at the meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Congregational church held in the vestry. The officers:

President, Mrs. Amos Loomer; vice president, Mrs. Walter Simon; secretary, Mrs. Martha Shaw; treasurer, Mrs. Louise Edwards; auditor, Mrs. Edward Hall.

Reports were given by the officers and plans were made for the fair. Tea was served.

Many Objects Given

It is no more natural that the name of the first President of the United States, because of historical significance and popular appeal, should be used as a fitting name for this and that tree, or city, or building.

Take, for example, the Washington cedar, the big tree of California. This is indeed a suitable memorial to General Washington. Or the famous Washington elm, that so long stood in Cambridge, Mass., under which he took command of the Continental army in 1775.

On referring to Webster's New International dictionary we readily find other phrases, possibly less familiar, but fully as strong in showing the popularity of the name because of the tradition behind it. There is the Washington hilly, found on the Pacific coast. The Washington palm of California has even been more specifically christened the Neowashington. In the East there is the Washington thorn, grown for its brilliant red fruit and beautiful autumn foliage.

More endeared among the young, is the Washington pie, which, in certain American localities, is a thick layer cake with cream or fruit-jam filling. And everyone knows of the Washington monument itself, 555 feet high, completed in 1884 in Washington, D. C.—a symbolic testimonial of the grateful memories of the sons and daughters of the Father of His Country.

Settled Legal Quibble

Some years ago an American died, leaving part of his estate to another to enjoy while he lived, with the privilege of devising it at his death to others whom he might select under his "hand and seal." A document was executed so devising the property, but it was contested by others claiming the property on the ground that the paper contained no seal after the signature and that the devise was therefore void.

A wise judge, after a close scrutiny of the signature, and a patient listening to the arguments of counsel, decided that at the end of the signature there was an extra scroll or flourish made with the pen with which the signature was made, and that this was sufficient in law to constitute a real seal.

Need of Nourishment of Trees Overlooked

More than half of the trees in the world are sick. Many of them are afflicted with incurable diseases. Like human beings, trees are the victims of numerous ills, declares a writer in Thrift Magazine. They are constantly the prey of deadly parasites which attack every part from roots to top-most branches and work into the very heart of the wood.

Millions upon millions of fine trees every year die needlessly because their owners fail to appreciate their mute appeals for help.

Seventy-five per cent of all shade and fruit trees are afflicted with V-shaped crotches, which are sure to spread and kill the trees unless taken care of in time.

Many trees die of hunger or thirst, or both. Trees are living things and they must have water and nourishment. The top of a tree is a perfect index of the general health and vitality of the trunk and branches all through the health of the top has no direct connection with internal decay. Good rich green foliage indicates, as a rule, excellent vitality and an active condition of the roots.

See Modern Alphabet as Thing of Accident

The Latin alphabet, now in world wide use for printing and writing, probably was invented about 4,000 years ago by some Semitic man who had been taught by an Egyptian acquaintance how to write his name in the Egyptian hieroglyphics, much as a modern traveler might teach a savage how to write his name in the white man's letters, says the Detroit News.

Somewhere in Egypt or Arabia there may still exist an ancient hieroglyphic inscription that this savage inventor studied occasionally to refresh his memory of the strange signs.

It probably was the accidental order of the words and signs in this Egyptian inscription that determined the order of letters in the modern A, B, C's.

The modern alphabet was obtained by the Romans from the Greeks, who got it, in turn, from the Phenicians. That great seafaring people had already borrowed it from the still more ancient Semitic peoples of Syria and Palestine.

Uncovering Old City

Excavations of science must doubtless agitate the spirits of the Hesperides, those beautiful maidens who in Greek mythology guarded the golden apples which Gaes, the Earth, produced as a marriage gift for Hera, wife and sister of Zeus. In Morocco, near the legendary gardens of the Hesperides, archeologists are making fresh excavations of the ruins of an ancient LUXUS.

This city was founded more than 2,000 years ago by the legions of the "Caesars" on a hillside of Larache. There is profound interest among scientists in what valuable remnants of the old Roman civilization may be brought to light. A group of prominent French and other archeologists just completed an inspection of the parts of LUXUS already uncovered.

Leaving the Farm

If you were willing to be a farmer, and have sense, Thrasonides, and obey your father, you would be carrying the goats ivy and laurel and myrtle and the flowers of the season, and us, your parents, sheaves of wheat, and wine pressed from grapes and a pall of milk whenever you milked your goats. But now you scorn the country and farming and are always singing the praises of the triple-crested helmet and the shield you love, as if you were some Acarnanian or Mallian mercenary. Don't, my son, but come back here, and stick to a peaceful life (for farming is sure and safe, and has no battalions, or ambushes, or regiments) and be our support in our old age, preferring assured safety to an uncertain life.—Aclephron.

Religion

The religion that makes people respect other people's religion; the religion that makes people tell the truth and pay their debts; the religion that keeps people from gossiping about their neighbors; the religion that makes no difference between poverty and wealth; the religion that makes men honest and upright; the religion that is a part of people's everyday life, exemplified in kind deeds, charitable acts, cheering words, is the kind of religion the world needs today.—J. A. Griffith, in the Lusk (Wyo.) Herald.

Lamp's Long Sea Trip

A curious-looking object was seen bobbing up and down on the waves at a north Wales coast resort. When landed it was found to be a solid brown mass with a thick salt-lake coating. This was removed and disclosed an osram lamp bearing the identity mark of a place one and a half miles across the water.

The lamp was placed in circuit and lit up in the ordinary way, although it must have been tossed about in the sea for a long while.

A Diversion

Betty Ellis little brother was taking his nap and in need of diversion Betty awakened him.

Mother impatiently inquired of her three-year-old daughter why she did it.

"I wanted him to wake up so you could get him to sleep again."

Possible to Control Coloring of Flowers

It is generally known that the colors of vegetation vary in intensity in direct ratio to the amount of sunlight, combined with coolness of temperature, within certain limits. Examples are the intense redness of apples grown in northern climates, and the deep colors of Alpine vegetation. But the soil and other influences also have an effect upon plant colors.

Experiments have been made within recent years with reference to the question of artificial control of the colors of plants through the introduction of such chemicals into the soil in which they grow. In very small quantities such chemicals are absorbed without apparent injury, but the effect upon the colors is slight. Yellow roses appear to become deeper in color under the influence of aluminum sulphate and potassium sulphate. With the use of these same chemicals the petals of the white carnation showed a tendency to develop red streaks, while when fed with ammonium sulphate, aluminum sulphate, iron citrate and citric acid scarlet carnations tended to form white streaks.

Sunday Games in Times of "Good Queen Bess"

In the Elizabethan age of English history not the mildest of games, entertainments or "shows" could be given on Sunday without a special permit from the queen in person. We read that on April 23, 1569, one "John Seemont, poulterer, having four small children, and fallen into decay," was given a permit by good Queen Bess "to have and use some plays and games, at or upon several Sundays, for his better relief, comfort and sustentation."

The games to be permitted under the direction of this Elizabethan promoter included "the shooting with the standard, the shooting with the broad-arrow, the shooting at the Turk, the leaping for men, the wrestling, the throwing of the sledge, and the pitching of the bar."

Queen Bess advised the authorities to attend the games with "four or five good, substantial men" to keep the peace and prevent disorder.

BOOST ANDOVER — LIVE IN ANDOVER

"LET THE BLESSED SUNSHINE IN" IS SLOGAN OF W. F. TAYLOR & SONS

Lawrence Firm Is Authority on Modern Types of Windows which will Make Homes More Attractive — Glass for Stores Is Made Bullet Proof and Shatterless — Steel Windows a Feature

Sunshine has rightly been called "Nature's Fountain of Youth". How to get more of it, and more out of it, is attracting nation-wide interest because so much of the life of the average person to-day is spent behind glass. Doctors and scientists as well as glass men are vying with one another to conserve the nation's health.

"Make Health While the Sun Shines" is reflected in the demand for more and larger windows in the modern home. They make it a brighter, healthier, and more charming place to live in. Few homes need be without a Sun-Parlor or glassed-in Porch today. Attics are changed from waste places to play-rooms, and cellars from dungeons to light, airy workshops.

W. F. Taylor & Sons, 640 Essex St. Lawrence will serve you when any question of Windows or Glass of any sort in your store, shop, or home comes up.

Warren F. Taylor the senior member has served the public for twenty years in this locality and the firm now holds the local agency for the following nationally-advised products—"Lupton Steel Windows," "Kawneer Copper Store Sash," "Safetee Bullet-Proof" and Triplex Shatterless Glass. We naturally, can talk of grades and brands of Plate glass, Mirrors, and Window-glass but with the development of Vita-Glass which has the power to transmit the vital, ultra-violet rays of sunlight, a whole new field has been opened up.

"Lupton Steel Windows are increasingly being demanded and specified" Mr. Taylor says, "because of their beauty, durability, and convenience. Made in 53 sizes and used in houses and apartments of all types,—they never stick when wet, don't rattle when dry and can readily be cleaned from the inside. Rolled from solid copper-steel, with a double oversize weather contact,—they come completely assembled to ensure weather tightness and uniformity. When open, they

Heavy Rainfall Aids Power Companies

The heavy, and in some cases continuous rains over large portions of the United States during the past spring have been reflected in the amount of electricity produced by water power. Ordinarily the percentage of hydro-electric power to the total production of electricity in the United States ranges from about 30 percent during dry months to 40 percent in wet months, but in May of this year the percentage was 44.6 percent of the total—the highest ever recorded.

Part of this large increase is of course due to the great amount of water in lakes and streams, but a large part of it is also due to the interconnection of hydro systems with those systems that ordinarily depend upon steam for the production of electricity. Excess or surplus water has always run to waste during spring high water, but this year these interconnections have enabled the hydro companies to take advantage of the excess water coming down the streams, by providing a market for the extra electricity generated; the steam plants in the meantime shutting down or curtailing their production so as to enable them to use the hydro-generated electricity. As there is an average saving of about 1.8 pounds of coal for each kilowatt hour of electricity produced by water, this means a saving of fuel supplies for future generations.

new violet-ray window glass which transmits over 60 percent of the sun's ultra-violet energy, a large percentage in the wave lengths test—proven to have these special properties. Under Vita glass chicks grew 220 percent more rapidly than under ordinary glass; likewise children in the Southwest, England test grew 216 percent more rapidly. Authorities have proven that skyshine, and cloudshine are excellent reflectors of ultra-violet so that windows having other than a southern exposure can be made a continued source of health. By this harnessing the sun's vital energy a fourth health factor appears. We all know of three factors which make an outdoor life more healthful than one indoors,—the light, the sun's warmth and the fresh air, but the fourth, the vital rays are only sensed through special instruments. Sunlight is nature's tonic, for collectively all the rays, help to build bones and muscle, repair waste tissue, enrich the blood and stimulate the brain.

An extract from a London newspaper concerning the effects of this glass in the London Zoo follows:—"Animals have lived through the winter in the Gardens. Animals have bred which have never before done so while in the zoo,—all the animals which used to mope so dreadfully are now quite happy." Vita Glass is being more and more used and specified by architects and doctors for schools, hospitals, office buildings, nurseries, zoos and greenhouses. $2.00 per square foot for this glass is an investment which pays big dividends in good health, in children's rooms, sun-porch or sick-room. Let "Taylor the Glass Man" install at least a few of these windows in your home before the long winter months set in. You will not only obtain the benefit of being out in the sun, but you may also expose yourself "a la seashore" in your home.

All But One

A large troop of soldiers had been on a 30-mile march. After they had returned, all tired and worn out, their officer, a big, strong fellow, said:

"Now those of you who think you cannot do the thirty miles again, take three paces forward."

All the soldiers took the three paces forward with the exception of one man who was looking extremely tired.

"I am much pleased to think that one man can do the march over again."

The man, hearing this, was quite embarrassed as he said:

"Nay officer, I can't even take the three paces forward."

Simple Happiness Rule

A famous singer recently told how four other great singers, who were to sing together at a gala occasion, quarreled over the question as to who should go first on the stage. All four were rich and famous, yet they made themselves miserable about such a little thing. The girl who is wretched if she goes another honored before her, will sooner or later ruin what might be a happy life. "In honor preferring one another" may not be an easy rule to follow, but it will surely bring peace to the mind and heart—Exchange.

Earliest Newspapers

It is hard to say just when newspapers began, for the first papers, or pamphlets, publishing news did not appear with any regularity. They appeared when there was something important to tell. For instance, there was a French pamphlet published in 1492 telling of the surrender of Granada by the Moors to Ferdinand and Isabella. Possibly there was another edition when Columbus discovered America, but no record has been found of that.

What Appealed to Him

An Aberdonian received a letter from his son, who had emigrated to Canada. It read:
"This is a perfect spot. How you would love the view of the mighty rolling prairie, backed by the glistening white peaks of the Rockies!"
His father replied, "I am very well content with the view at home here. From my front window I can look out to the head office of the North of Scotland bank, and from the side window I can see no fewer than four hotels."

GOLFERS' ANNUAL DINNER

Atty. Eaton Won Best Gross at Club Finals and Was Awarded 1928 Cup

Atty. James H. Eaton, with a card of 82, won the best gross at the Andover Country club Wednesday afternoon and the event concluded with the annual dinner for the members. Maurice J. Curran, Jr., won low net with a card of 88-21-67.

Other prizes were won during the afternoon in which about 80 golfers participated. The affair was one of the most successful conducted there this season.

In the evening at the dinner the annual season prizes were awarded and some very valuable ones were presented to the various members.

The winners Wednesday, besides Eaton and Curran were E. R. Dowd, who won the prize for the longest drive, when he sent the ball a distance of 283 yards; Norman K. Wiggins with 32 putts won the prize offered for taking the fewest number in the regulation distance of 18 holes; the winner of the prize for the most fours was awarded to A. G. Plake who holed out six of the greens with four shots. Clifford M. North with nine 5s and Rinehardt Kneupper with eight 6s were also given prizes.

Atty. James H. Eaton was also awarded the 1928 championship cup for winning the title during the season from J. R. S. Denton in a thrilling extra hole contest.

Shawsheen League Elects

At a meeting of the Shawsheen Bowling league, James Anderson was re-elected president for the 1928-29 season. The league was organized last year and proved most successful, ending with a banquet in Balmoral hall. This year all signs point to greater success with 8 teams ready to roll and in order to accommodate them all it will be necessary to roll both Thursday and Friday evenings beginning Thursday, October 4. The other officers elected were R. G. Heath, secretary; Philip B. Bladen, treasurer; bowling commission, D. Rennie, J. Phillips, J. Wilkinson and A. Greenfield.

To Play "Rubber" Match

The Shawsheen Tennis team will meet the Salem Country club team at the Balmoral courts Sunday afternoon. This will be the third meeting between the two teams this season and will be the "rubber" match. In each of the two previous encounters both sides scored three points each.

Shawsheen Bowling Green Team to Meet Lynn

The Shawsheen bowling green club will play two rinks with General Electric from Lynn Saturday afternoon on the Shawsheen green. The Shawsheen team will be represented by George Fyffe, George Gordon, James Skea, John Wilkinson, Joseph Greenow, Thomas Neil, William Bennett, and Alfred Harris, and the following reserves: David Strachan, J. Beattie and John Greenow.

A meeting will be held after the Lynn match at which time arrangements will be made for the closing of the green and a banquet to be held in October.

Singing Crickets

One of the most curious things to be seen in Japan, alike in the houses of rich and poor, is a small cage of bamboo fibers in which are housed singing crickets. The male only has the "voice," which can hardly be called a singing voice because the sounds emitted are much more metallic than those which ordinarily proceed from the throat of a bird. The westerner who hears these sounds for the first time starts up under the impression that he is hearing an electric call bell. In order to execute his song, the cricket goes through a very amusing performance. He raises himself on his front feet, grasps with the others a kind of "platform" arranged in the cage for his convenience, expands his wing-shells and rubs them against each other with great rapidity. The rhythm of the movement varies with individuals and this explains how the sound produced offers a certain variety in meter as well as in pitch.

Misunderstood

A foreign looking man, who only spoke a little English and that with the greatest of difficulty, was trying to find suitable apartments. Eventually he managed to make one landlady understand his peculiar intentions.
"So you want three rooms and a bath, do you?" she repeated, when at last she understood him.
The foreigner blushed.
"I need the three rooms, certainly," he replied indignantly. "But a bath, that is not so much of your business, yes?"—London Answers.

What should one really talk about? If you talk about yourself, you're conceited. If you talk about your business, you're a "shop talker." If you talk too much, you're a bore. If you haven't anything to talk about, you're uninteresting. If you talk about your baby or your club affiliations, you're a Babbitt. If you talk about people, you're a knocker. If you talk sweetly about a friend you're a log-roller. If you talk about art, you're a highbrow, and if you don't talk at all, you're a high-hat!—New York Graphic.

Mother Knew the Answer

Father entered the house in the evening in silence. He was seen to lay his golf clubs aside, to tread his way wearily about the house, and finally to slouch silently at the dinner table. He said not a word during the meal, nor after, until he was heard to mutter to his wife, "There's no place like home!"
"What's the matter?" asked mother, "something got wrong on the golf course?"

After this week copy for advertisements for the Townsman will not be accepted later than 5 o'clock Wednesday, and items for the general news not later than Thursday noon.

S. and C. League to Start October 2

Tuesday, October 2, marks the opening of the Andover Square and Compass bowling league for their fourth season. Six teams will be in the field again this year and the season will run for thirty weeks. There is a possibility that the season will be divided this year and the winner of the first half will roll the winner of the second half for the club championship. Prizes will be awarded for the high single, high triple, high average and the winning team.

The teams are lined up as follows: Levels, Hadley, capt., R. Hardy, Ralph, P. Hardy, Chadwick, L. Smith, Black.

Plumbs, Sherman, capt., J. Christie, Johnson, G. Christie, Bailey, Kimball, Clark, Hammond.

Gavels, Carse, capt., Neilson, Midgley, Sutton, J. Smith, Sellars, Erving, Holmes.

Squares, Higginson, capt., Wadman, Temple, Hill, Higgins, Munro, Black.

Compasses, Dobble, capt., Batcheller, Cotts, Crockett, Thornton, Emmons, Stowers.

Trowels, Peters, capt., Collins, Wiswall, Lewis, Downing, Taylor, Baker, Bodwell.

The schedule:

Oct. 2, Nov. 13, Dec. 18, Jan. 29, Mar. 5, Apr. 9, Levels vs. Plumbs; Gavels vs. Squares; Compasses vs. Trowels.

Oct. 9, Nov. 20, Jan. 1, Feb. 5, Mar. 12, Apr. 16, Levels vs. Gavels; Plumbs vs. Compasses; Squares vs. Trowels.

Oct. 16, Nov. 27, Jan. 8, Feb. 12, Mar. 19, Apr. 23, Levels vs. Squares; Plumbs vs. Trowels; Gavels vs. Compasses.

Oct. 23, Dec. 4, Jan. 15, Feb. 19, Mar. 26, Apr. 30, Levels vs. Compasses; Plumbs vs. Squares; Gavels vs. Trowels.

Oct. 30, Dec. 11, Jan. 22, Feb. 26, Apr. 2, May 7, Levels vs. Trowels, Plumbs vs. Gavels, Squares vs. Compasses.

Win Doubles Championship

James Skea and Mrs. Mary C. Edmonds won the doubles bowling championship on the Shawsheen green Sunday afternoon by defeating David Strachan and Mrs. John Greenow by the score of 21 to 9.

The score was tied at the seventh end but after that the winners gradually drew ahead. Both sides made good shots, some exciting plays being made.

The scores were as follows:
Skea and Mrs. Edmonds—0, 1, 2, 3, 4, 4, 4, 6, 7, 9, 9, 11, 14, 15, 18, 19, 19, 21, 21, 21, 21.

Strachan and Mrs. Greenow—1, 1, 1, 1, 1, 2, 4, 4, 4, 5, 5, 5, 5, 5, 6, 6, 8, 9, 9, 9.

Mr. Skea and Mrs. Edmonds won the semi-finals on Saturday afternoon when they defeated George Fyffe and Miss Carrie Robertson. The winners were ahead 13 to 1 at the ninth and when their opponents crept up on them and a score of four on the 15th end brought them within 6 points.

The winners stayed at 15 while the others gradually lessened the difference so that an extra end had to be played to determine the semi-finalists. The score was Skea and Edmonds 16, Fyffe and Robertson 15.

State President at P. T. A.

The opening meeting of the Shawsheen Parent-Teacher association will be held on Wednesday evening, October 10, in the school hall and the speaker will be the state president, Mrs. George Whiting. In view of the fact that it is the opening meeting and that the state president is to speak, it is urged that all members make a special effort to attend and an invitation is also extended to Andover parents to attend. There will also be a short motion picture "Historic Cape Cod" exhibited.

The program committee, with Mrs. George L. Gahm as chairman, has practically completed its work and will announce the full list of speakers in a few days.

Picture Writing Led to Modern Alphabet

Writing in its earliest development was ideography or picture writing. It comprised a series of pictures representing first a thing and secondly an idea. In the next stage of progress most of the lines of a recurring picture would be left out, until one stroke might at last come to represent perhaps a lion or the idea of hunting. The writing of some of the peoples of today is merely a continuation of such picture writing. Among other races the picture writing gradually developed into a combination of sounds to form the alphabet, and this type of writing has been set down in all sorts of ways. Each people developed its own alphabet, Eastern people for the most part writing, as we would say, backwards, i. e., from right to left; or downward; while our own branch of the human race which has developed the "cursive" style of writing in which each letter can be joined to the next without lifting the pen, find writing from left to right the most convenient method.

Toad's Eggs Hatched on Back of Mother

Among the 80 species of toads known there is one, the water toad of Central America, which presents many curious and interesting features. These toads employ a strange way of hatching their eggs. Most species lay their eggs in the creeks or ponds and leave them there until they are hatched. The pipa of Central America lays theirs in the water the same as the other species, but as soon as they are laid, the father lifts them up and literally plants them in the back of the mother toad. There they remain until they hatch. The skin of the mother toad becomes unusually thick and soft at this season of the year. Each egg occupies a separate round cell chamber, which later, by the pressure of each cell against the other, takes the shape of a honeycomb cell. Eighty-two days elapse before the hatching of the eggs. They remain in the back of the mother toad during this entire period. When they begin to hatch, they present a curious sight.

CLAN AUXILIARY LEAGUE

First Contest of the Season Gives the Robins, Ravens and Bluebirds the Lead

The bowlers of the Ladies Auxiliary of Clan Johnston started their league season Monday night at the Shawsheen alleys with the Robins taking all four points from the Ravens. E. Valentine was high with 87 and 241.

The Ravens took three from the Bluebirds losing only the first string by four pins. M. Harris had 94 and 241 for the best scores. The Orioles were able to take but one string from the Bluebirds, winning the first one by 5 pins. M. Gordon showed top form for all the bowlers when she hit 102 for the best single of the night and 264 for high triple.

Shawsheen Woman's Club

The first regular meeting of the Shawsheen Village Woman's Club will be held in Balmoral Hall, Monday, October 1st at seven forty-five p.m. After the regular business meeting the club will be entertained by the Scriven-Gary Duo. They are two very versatile young ladies, violinist and reader who entertain in costume. Mrs. George Neilson, chairman and her committee of fifteen hostesses will serve refreshments.

Reception and Tea

The annual reception and tea to the officers and members of the Shawsheen Village Woman's Club was held in Balmoral Hall, Wednesday afternoon, September 26th. Mrs. Leon Field, chairman of the hospitality committee was in charge assisted by her committee, Mrs. Frank Baldwin, Mrs. Garfield Chase, Mrs. Albert Fischer, Mrs. Alexander Morrison, Mrs. J. Everett Collins, Mrs. Erving Shaw, Mrs. George Winslow, Mrs. Fred D. Manning and Mrs. Harold T. Houston poured. Mrs. Percy Holt chairman of the music committee presented Mrs. Arthur Rohrer, pianist, who played selections by MacDowell and accompanied Mr. Harrington, tenor soloist, who was very much enjoyed. Many members took this opportunity of greeting old friends and welcoming new members after the summer season and it proved a most delightful affair.

Hoover Movies

"Hoover Volunteers" has arranged for free show of the moving picture "The Master of Emergencies" as follows:

Monday evening, October 1, at Manchester Horticultural Hall. Speakers.

Tuesday evening, October 2, 'Salem, in the four grammar school halls.

Wednesday evening, October 3, Peabody City Hall.

Thursday, 6:30 p.m., October 4, Ipswich, Town Hall, B. Loring Young, speaker.

Friday, 2:30 p.m., October 5, Lynn, Pythian Castle, 45 Market street.

Friday, 7:30 p.m., October 5, Haverhill, City Hall. Speakers.

Friday, 8:30 p.m., October 5, Lawrence, Winter Garden. Speakers.

Much interest has been aroused in this picture and the public is invited to attend at the most convenient place regardless of party affiliation.

No great is the demand for this film that no other opportunity will be afforded Essex County people than the above schedule.
